Flower Show Is Acclaimed As Big Community Event

Echoing with continuous expressions of amazed admiration, the social hall of the Presbyterian church was the Mecca of flower lovers Wednesday and Thursday, as hundreds of visitors gathered there for the most successful flower show ever held in Upland.

Sponsored by Mrs. H. M. Guy's group of the Presbyterian Women's association, the flower show caught the public fancy and drew many scores of entries from the West End communities and hundreds of visitors from these and more distant places.

Planned first as an intra-church benefit event, the flower show, nourished by eager public interest, soon grew into a community-wide project and blossomed in such abundance and beauty that it proved a delightful surprise to everyone, even to its sponsors.

SETTING PROVIDED

As the result of long range planning and many days of work on the part of Mrs. Guy, general chairman; Miss Elizabeth Harris, manager, and the many who assisted them, the large social hall in the church and adjoining class rooms were transformed into an artistic conservatory setting for the big floral exhibition.

Skillful use of many potted ferns, green bamboo canes, bright cellophane and crepe paper hangings, etc., provided an appropriate background for the hundreds of colorful exhibits.

ATTENDANCE CONTINUOUS

The show opened at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of each day and continued through to 9 in the evening, and at no time during those hours was there less than a capacity attendance.

Added to the throngs of local people attending were scores of visitors from Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Ontario, Claremont, Pomona, LaVerne, and other places.

The number of entries brought by residents of other communities was especially gratifying to the sponsors, as was their generous assistance given in many ways.

A total of 212 exhibits were entered for the judging, while equally as many, or more, were placed as non-competitive entries.

Judges of the exhibits, all widely known floral experts, were Mrs. Harvey Hanawalt of LaVerne, Mrs. Charles Emery of Pomona, and Mrs. Henry Jones of Claremont.

Ribbon awards were made for first and second places and many honorable mention and special ribbons were given in the various classes.

TALENT REVEALED

One of the most striking things about the show was the artistry and originality shown in arrangement. There were stately, formal exhibits, unique exhibits, beautifully blended colors in informal arrangements; large, commanding displays, exquisite miniature arrangements; clever displays arranged by children; a long table of especially attractive exhibits entered by men; a large Mexican exhibit, beautiful exhibits entered by professional florists not in competition, and so many others that several hours would have been required to study them all.

MANY ASSIST

All persons who made entries and all who aided in the work can claim a portion of the credit for the show's success.

Mrs. Guy and Miss Harris, in general charge, were ably assisted by Mrs. Ernest W. Fischer, who gave valuable advice, and by Mrs. Geo. H. Swindells of Ontario, whose aid proved invaluable.

Mrs. Swindells had charge of the dry grass department; Mrs. Frank Phillips, of the succulents; Mrs. Thos. W. Harris and Mrs. J. F. Hamilton, potted plants; Mrs. Jesse Monroe, bowl arrangements; Mrs. Eldon C. Atwood, Mexican exhibits; Mrs. Henry Busch, Oriental; Mrs. W. F. Rugg, miniature; Mrs. Donovan E. Palmer, children, and Mrs. Milton F. Huxtable, men's division.

Mrs. W. F. Tyler was in charge of the sales booth, Mrs. H. S. Bailey provided a large collection of beautifully illustrated botanical books, and Mrs. Isabelle Wisely presided at the Spanish sales booth.

Noted Author of Gone With Wind Is Met in Breeze

Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind", is a friendly and very charming woman, say Mrs. C. I. Linkey and Mrs. A. M. Hawkins. Introduced, oddly enough, when their tea table spreads almost "went with the wind", the three women talked informally for a few minutes.

Mrs. Linkey, former resident of Upland, is here from her home in Portland, Ore., for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Carl Rausin in Ontario, and other local relatives. On Wednesday she and Mrs. Hawkins went to Sierra Madre to see the famous wistaria vine, now in bloom.

It was while having tea beneath an arbor that they met the famous author through a breezy accident.

City Clerk Better Following Illness

J. Lynward Grahame, city clerk, has been ill since Monday but his condition today is reported by Mrs. Grahame as much improved. He is in a San Bernardino hospital and at first it was thought he was suffering with pneumonia.

In place of pneumonia, however, the official had contracted a cold. The patient has rapidly improved and he will be at home in a few days, according to Mrs. Grahame. E. C. Mehl, police chief and deputy city clerk, served as clerk at last night's city council meeting.

Upland Red Cross Roll Call Honored

An honor certificate for distinguished achievement in the annual roll call has been awarded the Upland chapter of the American Red Cross.

The certificate was received from national headquarters by Mrs. Mary Eckerman, Upland chairman, and is on display in the window of the Upland chamber of commerce this week.

STORES DRESS UP BUILDINGS HERE

Six Firms Improve Appearance and Add New Fixtures for Public

New paint, new lights, new fixtures and other changes are included in improvements made by at least six Upland stores in recent weeks. Interiors of stores have been given a complete retouchng and the fronts of other stores have been made much more attractive.

Not only has the interior of Mac, the Medicine Man's store been repainted but also new lights have been installed over the fountain to add further distinction to this institution. The new light-toned paint with the addition of the new illumination further enhances the store's appearance.

Olson's Meat market has just completed the installation of a new white enamel meat display case. Streamlined in appearance with its white enamel bordered with black, the new case is the "last word" in displaying the meat to the public.

Workmen are completing the refinishing of the interior and exterior of the Harnish Dry Goods Co. building. Installation of a large window in the rear wall of the structure and the new paint improves the attractiveness of the store.

One of the major improvements in the business district has been the remodeling of the front of the Upland Furniture Co. building. A portion of the building is also occupied by Newell S. Crowley, attorney. Paul Hottel, proprietor of the furniture company, has had workmen repaint the interior and other improvements are planned.

The building occupied by Sam Strieby's Men's store has also been renovated. Forbes Mellon, proprietor of Mellon's Kitchen Mart, recently completed the enlargement and interior and exterior renovation of his store, which is adjacent to the post office.

ACCIDENT STUDY PLANNED BY BOY SCOUT MEMBERS

City Will Send Data to Rail-Accidents in Effort to Provide Aid

Mapping Upland for the purpose of making an accident survey is a project which the Boy Scout safety unit is planning to undertake in the near future, according to James Livermore, leader of the unit.

The unit plans to start by making an enlarged map of Upland and vicinity. In cooperation with the police department and other officials the boys will make a complete survey of the city, enumerating and classifying all types of accidents which have happened here during the past year. Locations where accidents have occurred will be indicated on the map with pins.

A special study of accidents tabulated in the survey will be made. They will be studied and classified with regard to frequency, nature and type of injuries involved.

In the absence of Tweed Stone, who instructs the safety unit in Red Cross first aid, the boys next Wednesday evening will take up training in observation so as to develop thinking quickly and accurately.

At this meeting they also start work on a mobilization plan which will facilitate action in case of emergency.

ORANGE COUNTY TRIP

An interesting account of his trip with Scoutmaster Earl E. Hawthorne to the Scout training school in Santa Ana recently was given by James Livermore.

The Orange county safety unit, he said, has a communication truck equipped with police radio and 2-way short wave outfit and a public address system. It also has an ambulance of the best type in Southern California, besides a field hospital truck with a commissary trailer. At a recent convention this commissary served 800 people in one hour.

Orange county safety unit members gain additional experience and training by riding as ambulance assistants with the different ambulance companies every Saturday night.

The trucks are entirely the work of the boys, having been constructed by them at an outlay of around $1,000.

Whatever Weather Comes Now, Spring Has Come to Stay

Following two false starts in as many weeks, Spring officially entered the 1941 arena today. According to the old saying "in like a lion, out like a lamb," March will have to be getting down to business, if it is to live up to it.

Signs of spring are abundant. Of course, there is that feeling in the blood, commonly known as "spring fever," which runs high these warm, desultory days. Then, too, there is the thought of the approaching fishing season, but a month away.

A most decided sign in these parts are strollers under the pepper trees along Euclid. Boys and girls from Chaffey trudging to and from school in lonesomes, twosomes, and moresomes.

And the past two Sundays the roller skaters have appeared, an infallible sign. Not to mention the more modern-day omen of sun suits on parade.

At last it is Spring, and it will be spring now no matter what variety of weather the winds and the sun choose to brew.

PRINCESS PHYLLIS REIGNS YESTERDAY

Sun Princess Will Receive Silver Cup Token at Sunday Show

Sun Princess Phyllis Swan made her appointed bow at the National Orange show last night signaling the celebration of "Upland Day" at the show.

At the afternoon performance, Princess Phyllis was attired in a sports outfit for her presentation to fair throngs from the main stage. In the evening she wore a formal gown of for-get-me-not blue and carried a corsage of white camelias, a token from her sponsors, the Upland chamber of commerce.

Princess Phyllis' final appearance will be made Sunday afternoon, March 23, the last day of the show. At that time, with other Sun Princesses and the Sun Godess, she will be guest at a dinner given by the Orange show in the show cafeteria at 6 p.m.

At the evening preformance the Sun Goddess will hold court, and at that time Sun Princess Phyllis will be presented with a silver cup as a token of her participation in the 1941 Orange show.

Well Tunnels Under S. A. Wash Would Make Wet Bomb Shelters

BY HOWARD PIERCE

In these days of war and bomb shelters, we read much of Londoners taking refuge in the "underground", meaning, of course, the metropolis' subways.

Well, and in this case I do mean well (a hole in the ground), Upland too has an underground. It is by no means comparable to London's subway in the same sense, but nevertheless, it is a subterranean series of tunnels approximately 200 feet below the surface of San Antonio wash.

These tunnels, totaling over 900 feet in length, almost a fifth of a mile, are water tunnels. They are being constructed by the city of Upland as a unit of the city water supply system.

DOWN UNDER

Recently City Manager R. G. Manley invited me to inspect Upland's "underground". So one sprinkling afternoon we set out for the well on Twenty-sixth street in the wash.

Arriving at the shed which covers the well entrance and also houses the hoist machinery, we had to "change" clothes. We replaced our shoes, coats and hats for hip boots, rubber slickers, and muckers' pith helmets. Later I was to thank my underground stars for that heavy, hard hat.

Attired for flood and high water, we mounted the well shaft opening, where the "elevator" waited us. It was the gravel bucket, about 18 inches in diameter, hooked to a half-inch cable. Taking a brief look down the shaft before our take-off, I could see a small patch of light about as big as a postage stamp in a circle of darkness at the bottom. That was our destination.

TANDEM DESCENT

So we arranged ourselves for the descent. Mr. Manley perched on one rim of the bucket and I on the other. Thus balanced, with our feet astride each side of the bucket handle and with one hand grasping the cable between us, Mr. Manley signalled the hoist man to lower away.

Down we started inching into darkness. With our free hands we steadied against swaying, for the shaft just allowed comfortable clearance for two.

Daylight faded, and soon we dangled in an interval of semi-darkness before we reached the glow of incandescent light from the bottom. To pass time on the way down, I counted the rungs of the iron ladder that descends one side of the shaft. I thought what a sweat one could work up climbing those 160 lifts, especially in the heavy outfits we had put on.

WET ARRIVAL

Finally we came to rest at the bottom of the shaft and alighted in tunnel water well over our ankles. Taking a last look up at daylight, I wondered momentarily how we had got into this hole

CROSSING REQUEST OVER SANTA FE IS READY FOR FILING

City Will Send Date to Railroad Commission for Hearing Soon

All the engineering data has been compiled today relative to the city's application for construction of a Santa Fe crossing to connect North and South Second avenues.

City Manager Richard G. Manley said that the city's request for the crossing over the Santa Fe tracks will be filed with the California Railroad commission before the end of the month. Material in the application is designed to give members of the commission a picture of the local situation and emphasis is placed upon the need of opening up the city's main business street.

Filing of the request is scheduled to result in a public hearing being called.

SANTA FE TO BE NOTIFIED

The Santa Fe Railway Co. is scheduled to be notified by the commission when the application is filed. An opportunity will be given the company representatives to either file a protest or to remain neutral in the matter.

The city council recently authorized the filing of an application for the crossing.

Establishment of the crossing would directly connect North and South Second avenues and interested persons have expressed the belief the improvement would benefit residents in the area annexed to Upland in recent years.

Announce Crombie Allen Contestants

Competing in the Crombie Allen peace oratorical contest sponsored by the Ontario Rotary club are Miss Dorothy Benson, Miss Marjorie Browning, Stanley Read and Edgar Pierce, members of the public speaking class at Chaffey junior college. This year's finals will be held in the Casa Blanca hotel on April 17.

MODERNIZED OLD HOUSES IS NEED

Improved Homes Will Keep Desirable Residents in West End

That modernization will rent old houses was the consensus of opinion expressed at the meeting called Tuesday evening in Ontario city hall by the joint housing survey committee of the Ontario and Upland chambers of commerce.

Rather than a lack of housing facilities in Ontario and Upland, the problem seems to be one of insufficient desirable places, that is, attractive homes with conveniences and in good condition, the meeting decided. Need of new building should not be confused with need of modernizing existing buildings, so that they will rent and stay rented.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

Plans for stimulating interest and action toward modernization were discussed. Leading proposal favored use of a "horrible example" to create public interest. The plan would call for the modernization of some old house or section which would be thrown open to public inspection. Mass meetings, contests and building material displays were also discussed as campaign instruments.

The meeting passed a motion to appoint a committee to take charge of working out a plan of action and to set up a schedule of budget requirements for the campaign.

C. S. McArthur was appointed by J. Dewey Harnish, Ontario chamber of commerce president, to head this committee.

Upland members of the Ontario-Upland joint housing survey committee are: G. T. Redmon, W. F. Rugg and Elmer Allen.

Judge Sharp Says People Should Do Their Civic Duty

Judge James Sharp, Cucamonga, has his troubles getting jurors these fine spring days. This is the weather they all want off, because it's the "busiest day in the week" at each one's place.

Years ago, jurors did not receive pay, the Judge points out, but now they do, so that is no excuse. People exercise their rights as voters, he says, but shirk when it comes to doing their duty.

The judge put it this way. Anyone arrested and feeling himself to be innocent would demand a jury trial. How would he feel if no one wanted to serve on the jury?

Judge Sharp says that in his early days as a judge he used to excuse people, but that, he found, did not work so well. So, now days, he has adopted a policy of being firm and insisting that people do their civic duty.

VETERAN HONORED BY UPLAND MASONS

T. M. Nichols Is Presented 50-Year Button During Special Meeting

Thomas M. Nichols on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his membership in Masonry, was presented with a gold 50-year button at a special meeting held in the Upland lodge hall last night. Nearly 100 Masons were present to honor Mr. Nichols.

Joining his local lodge members in paying their respects, were members of the Santa Fe Masonic club of Los Angeles, and representatives of many other lodges. A group of eight Masons each having over 50 years service in Masonry took an active part. They were Fremont Crane, O. K. Granger, W. S. Avery and W. H. Andrews of Upland; C. A. McLean of Claremont, G. S. Foster of Alta Loma, and W. D. Barker of Santa Ana.

Mr. Nichols, who has recently retired after 52 years in the railroad business, most of which was with the Santa Fe, is a past master of his home lodge, Stranger's Rest, of Boonville, Indiana. He was later affiliated with Santa Ana and Ontario lodges before becoming a charter member of Upland lodge in 1910. He has always been very active and has held the office of marshal since 1925.

The meeting was arranged by a committee of past masters, George Cassell being chairman and W. W. Mather acting as worshipful master. Musical numbers were given by E. H. Genung and Thomas Pollock. Refreshments were enjoyed in the social hall after the ceremonies in the lodge rooms.

Slight Damage in Collision Mishap

A damaged front fender was the only casualty suffered in an automobile collision between cars driven by Eva V. Brian, Ninth street and Central avenue, Upland, and Dr. Edward L. Larson, Wheeling, Illinois, when they collided at West Ninth street and Mountain avenue yesterday afternoon.

According to the report made to Upland police, the Brian car, traveling east on Ninth street, was struck by Dr. Larson when the latter failed to observe a "stop" sign as he drove south on Mountain avenue.

Andreas Resting At S. A. Hospital

Assemblyman Godfrey A. Andreas, who is home from Sacramento for a brief interval to attend the opening of the San Bernardino Orange show, entered San Antonio Community hospital this week for a general check up and a few days rest.

Mr. Andreas is reported to be resting well, and he plans to return to Sacramento within a few days to continue with the work of the legislative sessions.

MUST FARMER PAY LICENSE TO SELL HERE, CITY ASKED

Business Fee Question Again Before Officials—Plumbing Law Considered

In the horse and buggy days it was a common custom for people to bring the produce of their garden or farm to town and sell to merchants—and there was no business license.

Today, a Japanese family has a "garden" of 90 acres near Chino and the produce is brought to Upland grocery stores—and the producer may or may not have to pay an Upland business license for use of the streets.

INTERPRETATION SOUGHT

Upland city councilmen gave consideration to this matter at their meeting last night at the request of Henry Busch, attorney, who represented the Japanese gardeners. The recently adopted license ordinance establishes the use of the streets as a basis for payment of a business license. Mr. Busch asked, however, if "it was the council's intention to charge a man a license for the privilege of selling his own produce".

No formal action was taken. Expressions from the councilmen indicated they were not of unanimous opinion. Police Chief E. C. Mehl has sought to collect the license in accordance with the ordinance but the gardener had refused to pay. Thus a request was made to get a policy ruling from the councilmen.

PLUMBING ORDINANCE

Prolonged consideration was given to a proposed ordinance regulating plumbing installations and providing for a board of plumbers to license only "qualified" plumbers. A uniform ordinance governing Upland, Claremont, Ontario and Pomona is sought. Local plumbers will be invited to express their views on the proposal.

Several questions were asked on an unsigned post card to the city council and this matter provoked comment.

"We are always very glad to get suggestions from the public," declared City Manager Richard G. Manley after reading the anonymous postal, "but we do wish this man had signed his name. One question referred to the proposed plan of placing lawn on Euclid avenue parkway north of Foothill boulevard. Mr. Manley explained that this was a project planned sometime for the future although he had unsuccessfully sought to get the WPA to place the sprinkling system now.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

Jess Monroe told of plans to improve the service station at Euclid avenue and Arrow highway. He was advised to submit a sketch of the improvements to the planning commission. A. J. Handley, 705 Euclid avenue, asked permission to take out walnut trees on his parkway and this matter was also referred to the planning commission.

Chaffey Aggies Win Places in Contest

Results of a contest in Chaffey high school agricultural department sponsored by Cooperative Producers of California were made known today by Glenn Moody, instructor in the agricultural department. The public speaking contest was elective for any agricultural student, and was not a part of the regular class work.

Student competition was in three divisions: citrus, dairy, and walnuts. Boys had as their choice of topics the following: "As a future farmer I think it advisable to market cooperatively because—" and "As a future farmer I think it advisable to purchase cooperatively because—."

Winners in the citrus division were Dale Frost, first; Edgar Van Fleet, second; Agnus Boyd, third. Winners in the walnut contest were Ralph Donnelly, first. Richard Jones tied for second.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

What then shall I do unto Jesus who is called Christ?—Matt. 27:22.

Are We a Nation of Fools?

Most Americans, undoubtedly, are still good Americans, who put the welfare of their country ahead of selfish advantage. But there are conditions now existing in this nation which are an affront to every right-thinking citizen. There are conditions which make friendly and enemy powers alike wonder whether we are a nation or fools.

There are thousands of fine American youths in army training camps, giving a year, or possibly two or three years, to their country's service for dollar-a-day wages. There are tens of millions of American taxpayers giving until it hurts to pay for American defense. And yet this country still puts up with strikes and walkouts in vital defense industries, just as France did before her Gethsemane.

There are cheap jurisdictional quarrels between unions, tying up production at a time when lack of production may jeopardize the safety of our nation. There are strikes in aluminum plants, when the government is rationing our limited supply of that metal to protect defense industries. There is a strike in a Bethlehem steel plant which is making artillery parts and ammunition. There are strikes in airplane companies, admittedly provoked by agents of foreign governments—and yet we do nothing. There's the Allis Chalmers strike, choking off the manufacture of powder and the building of destroyers. There's the Universal Cyclops strike, stopping the production of fuses. And when these strikes have been settled, new strikes will have been called. Yet America does nothing!

We don't need laws to cope with that situation. We simply need an articulate, outraged public opinion. We just need an expression of what the average man is thinking—a swelling chorus of public indignation against any and every person who lets personal greed and selfishness, or blindness to his country's need, stand in the way of our national welfare.—California Feature Service.

Flower Show One of Finest Events Ever Held in Community

With a little care and water, beautiful flowers can be produced in abundance here.

With a little planning, plenty of hard work and an enthusiastic expression of community interest, a flower shower, amazing in scope and gorgeously beautiful, can be presented here.

One of the finest of community events was the unique flower show, which came to a close last night. It was "amazing" and "unique" from the standpoint of the large number of entries, the number of people who attended, and the colorful arrangement of the displays.

In the early days of planning for the show, some of the women in charge thought of various entries they could make "just to be sure there will be enough". But such precaution was unnecessary. From every standpoint, expectations were far exceeded. Several hundred beautiful entries came from people throughout the Upland district and Ontario. A throng of interested people were thrilled by the beautiful spectacle.

Nothing has been said so far about making this an annual event. However, apparently, a flower show is of great interest to many people—participants and spectators. A high standard has been established by the Presbyterian church women whose ideas and work made this week's event so successful. Their efforts and enthusiasm deserve the community's commendation. The flower show was a great success. We hope they repeat it.

Draftees May Be Safer Than Those of Us Not in Army

Young men of today are going from Upland to army service in much the same manner as 24 years ago. The fourth call for draftees has been issued and this will directly affect nearly a dozen homes in the Upland district.

Twenty-four years ago departure of the embryo soldiers saddened the community. The terrifying question then was: "How many of them will return alive?"

War and the dangers of war is not the subject of this discourse, however. Rather, the point today is that the auto is more deadly than the horrible implements of war. The men leaving for army duty this month will probably be safer than are those who remain at home. Maybe the young soldiers are the ones to ask the question as they leave their loved ones: "How many of them will escape death from the auto?"

The traffic slaughter is terrible and unnecessary. No great cause is served by those who dash their brains out against stone bulwarks in an effort to beat time. Think of the loss of it, the agony of it, the waste of it, and the folly of it.

HIGH MARK SCORED BY PUBLICITY BOOK

Mrs. Dybsand in First Place With Upland Entry in Council Contest

Scoring the highest rating of any entry submitted, the Upland P.-T.A. publicity record book entered by Mrs. Henry Dybsand, publicity chairman, was selected Wednesday as one of the three books to be placed in the district competition.

The publicity books were judged Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. M. Corn, 218 East G street, Ontario. Mrs. Corn, who has aided in judging publicity books in council and district competition for a number of years, was assisted by Mrs. David F. Jones of Upland, a former publicity chairman and also experienced in judging.

OTHERS LISTED

Because the Upland Parent-Teacher association includes both the Elementary and junior high schools, it was necessary also to select one book each from a junior high and an elementary school.

Taking first place in these classifications were the book entered by the Vina Danks junior high P.-T.A. in Ontario, Mrs. Melvin Dinger, president, and Mrs. H. W. Bragg, publicity chairman; and the entry by the Etiwanda elementary school P.-T.A., Mrs. Walter Price, president, and Mrs. C. A. Fleming, publicity chairman.

The book prepared and entered by Mrs. Dybsand received the very high rating of 95 per cent, with high marks being scored on all points.

The books were entered for judging at the Fifth district meeting held today at the Mission school near Redlands.

Mrs. George Eyer, president of the Upland P.-T.A., and other members of the board were well pleased with the rating won by the publicity book and they highly complimented Mrs. Dybsand upon her excellent work.

Athletic Banquet Slated March 28

The traditional Chaffey junior college football and basketball banquet will be held Friday evening, March 28 in the high school cafeteria.

For the first time members of the teams will have guests. Coaches Burt Heiser and Howard Mitchell and members of the Chaffey school board will be honored guests. Banquet guests will view the presentation of awards after a short program in charge of Richard Davis.

Men eligible for the event include Richard Pehl, Charles Arthur, Ernest Collingsworth, Richard Davis, Keith Gummere, Kenneth Kilday and William Van Dorin.

Principals Visit In Beach Schools

Principals Boyd Lehman, Alta Loma school; George Geiger, Etiwanda school, and F. M. Sparks, South Cucamonga school, made a trip together to Long Beach Saturday, where they had a chance to look in on various demonstrations of classroom work.

With a large assemblage of teachers, they had lunch at Hotel Hilton, where a speaker addressed the gathering. In the afternoon, the Foothill principals, with other teachers attending the meeting, were guests of the Long Beach chamber of commerce. The chamber took them all for a tour of Los Angeles harbor.

"First Automobile In Madison"

By Bradford Whitney, Nov. 19, 1899

(What he thought of the first automobile in Madison, Wis., as a lad of 13 years is revealed by A. Bradford Whitney, prominent citrus grower. An essay discussing that first motor car was recently discovered by the Uplander among his cherished possessions. He wrote it as part of his seventh grade English class work on Nov. 10, 1899.)

Following is the essay:

"The first automobile owned by a resident of Madison was first seen last Friday evening gliding along swiftly and smoothly down Langdon street. Although there has been one or two automobiles in Madison before, this is the first Madison automobile.

"It is owned by Prof. Wood of the University of Wisconsin, the man who invented a means of thawing out water pipes last winter. It is a one-seated carriage and has a gasoline vapor engine. This engine runs two piston rods and runs a small wheel which has a belt from it to a small wheel on the back axle. This machinery runs the vehicle.

"It is steered by a handle bar connected with the front pair of wheels. It is able to move backwards and forwards and is managed by little levers on the side of the vehicle. One drawback to the appearance of it is the steam which escapes out behind.

"Its highest speed is supposed to be 40 miles an hour, which is the rate of average passenger trains.

"About every person living on upper Langdon street had a ride in it Saturday and a jolly doctor of the town was seen holding on for dear life as he was whirled around a corner.

"It was at the last football game and was nearly as much an object of interest as the game itself. It has caused a number of runaways already. Not many years will have gone by before nobody will look at an automobile with any more interest than at a horse and buggy."

CHAFFEY PART IN DEFENSE IS TOLD BY SUPT. SPRING

High School Should Instill Americanism While J. C. Trains for Defense

That the work of Chaffey high school and Chaffey junior college is clearly defined in the light of the present national emergency was indicated by Superintendent Gardiner W. Spring in his discussion before Chaffey high school faculty this week. Mr. and Mrs. Spring were entertained by the high school group in honor of their return recently from educational meetings in the east.

"Our task in the high school is not vocational competency," said Mr. Spring, "It is not the training of young men for the defense industries. That task we shall impose upon the junior college. Our objective is far higher; it is the development of character; the strengthening of moral fibre, the unification of spirit, the making of true Americans."

Mr. Spring emphasized the need today to bring into the hearts of young people those sterner virtues of courage, honesty, and unremitting self-sacrifice which were so much a part of the lives of the men and women who founded this country and who established its freedom.

In order to accomplish this he feels that the high-school program will not be changed so much in content as in emphasis. "Fundamental to all else is the necessity of instilling into the hearts of our young people an enthusiasm for the American way of life," he said.

COLLEGE AIDS DEFENSE

Chaffey junior college, is already making its contribution to national defense. It is now running defense classes day and night, until one o'clock in the morning. As a result, every seven weeks an average of 75 men are sent to the aviation industry. Through the regular two-year courses in aviation approximately 100 college-trained men are sent each spring into the defense industries. Other departments are beginning to make their contributions.

During the past year, he pointed out, 165 students have been taught to fly. All of these men have been thoroughly trained in the fundamentals of air navigation at the college and have been given flight instruction under the supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

"While turning men out into the defense industries, the college has not forgotten that our country must continue to have scientifically trained men and women who may, on leaving Chaffey, continue their professional studies at the universities. We are attempting to select this group more carefully and to send them on better prepared than ever before."

Foothill Scouts' Hear History of Valley Indians

Alta Loma Boy Scouts agreed that it was worth postponing their regular meeting from Monday to Tuesday night this week so that they could have as their guest Gerald Smith of the Warm Springs school, who talked to them about Indian lore of San Bernardino valley.

Mr. Smith is one of the best known authorities on primitive Indian lore of the valley. A study of Indian life in the valley was made by him for his master's thesis, and this work has also been published as a book.

In addition to his talk, Mr. Smith also exhibited a number of specimens from his collection of Indian relics.

SOIL-SAVING WORK IN AREA OUTLINED

Speakers Tell Lions Club of CCC Camp Activities Since 1937

Twenty-nine thousand acres of land in the west end of the county are included in the soil conservation activities.

This report and interesting figures about the work of the Cucamonga CCC camp were presented at the meeting of the Upland Lions club in the Red Hill Country club house at noon yesterday. The camp was established in 1937 and since then the CCC enrollees and engineers have been waging a battle to benfit the soil, according to Arthur Darsey, and A. J. Plumb. Mr. Darsey is camp superintendent and Mr. Plumb is conservationist.

"The soil is an heritage we must guard if we are to survive as a nation," Mr. Darsey said in pointing out the urgency of checking soil erosion and of "leaving the land as good as we found it."

A survey in 1933 revealed that 12 per cent of the nation's agricultural land had been "worn out," and that 41 per cent was "slightly eroded," Mr. Darsey said.

As to the scope of the local work, Mr. Plumb said owners of 29,000 acres had participated in the program, that 128 check dams had been constructed, that 60,000 feet of diversion channels had been placed and that irrigation systems had been improved on 25 farms. Development of cover crops is one of the principal objectives in the program, according to Mr. Plumb, who also reported on the wind erosion work being done southeast of Ontario.

Pete Hogan, as program chairman, presented the speakers, with President J. W. Mehl in charge of the meeting. Brief talks were also given by L. A. Fox and Norman Lawson.

The club's speaker next Thursday will be George Stanley, Corona, district governor.

Tractor Operation Class at Chaffey

Young farmers and out-of-school boys of the Chaffey area may obtain a practical course in tractor work through the National defense program at Chaffey, if they wish, according to announcement made by Dr. R. E. Berry, head of adult education.

Applicants desiring to learn tractor operation in all phases should call or telephone the adult education office at Chaffey for detailed information.

The course was recently outlined to Charles Perrin, head of Chaffey high school agriculture department by Harold Wilson, from the state bureau of agricultural education.

"FIRST LADY" TO BE SENIOR PLAY

Drama Satire of Washington Political Life Will Be Stage Drama

"First Lady", brilliant political satire of present-day Washington, has been announced as the spring play at Chaffey junior college by the director of the Chaffey college little theatre, Ruth Tremaine Kegley. The play will be given in the Chaffey auditorium on May 2 at 8 p. m.

Casting has been going on this week, with many of the 25 speaking parts and extras yet undecided. The two feminine leading roles have been won, however, by Miss Mary Margaret Ingalls and Miss Barbara King.

Written by the popular playwrights, George Kaufman and Katherine Dayton, "First Lady" has been made famous on Broadway by Jane Cowl. It has once been reproduced in the movie with Kay Francis in the leading role.

Aeronautics Plan Reunion, Barbecue

Former Chaffey junior college men employed in the aviation industry, those who are graduates of the aeronautics department and others, are invited to attend the annual Aeronautics club steak dinner in the women's gymnasium at 7 p. m., March 29. Reservations must be made with Frank Bras or Douglas Kelley in the Chaffey aeronautics department by March 25.

Steaks will be barbecued under the direction of Ray Ferguson, past president of the aeronautics club, who will cook them with specially prepared salt and seasonings. The menu, built around the steaks, is one designed to serve the men and their wives and guests. Decorations will be strictly aeronautical.

Besides the student leaders, Charles L. Turner, P. J. Birkofer and Harry Peterson are assisting.

One of the elaborate mechanical exhibits at the National Orange show, San Bernardino, March 13-23, is that of the Ontario chamber of commerce, designed by Jay Gooch, landscape architect of the Armstrong Nurseries. It is titled "Esdrimidor de Naranja" (The Orange Press). The purpose of the exhibit is to show how the early Spanish settlers utilized water power for all sorts of work.

Fidelis Class Plans Social Meeting

Social meeting of the Fidelis class of the Methodist church will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold J. Stickney, Terrace drive, San Antonio Heights.

A 25c supper will be served at 6:30, with the meeting following. A program is being planned by the committee.

Wesleyan Guild Sees Pictures of Siam During Meeting

Dr. J. W. McKean of Claremont, who spent many years of his life in Siam, gave an illustrated address on the leper colony there, when he spoke at the social meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold J. Stickney of San Antonio Heights by the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist church.

The meeting was preceded by a 6:30 dinner served by the hostess and her assistants, Miss Jessie Brown and Miss Florence Armstrong. Mrs. Henry Anderson, president, conducted a brief business session and Mrs. Stickney led the devotional service. Mrs. Robert O. Hall, program chairman, presented the speaker.

It was through Dr. McKean's persistent efforts that the leper colony was established in Siam and he told something of its founding and early development.

Much of the speaker's time was devoted to a description of the colony and its operation and of the lepers, themselves, at the present time.

Dr. McKean illustrated his talk with pictures made in the colony and from them was gained a vivid conception of the horrors of leprosy.

Although some of them were not pleasant to look at, still the pictures were information and gave a better understanding of life in the leper colony than any word description could do.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Coy Sanders, Mrs. Francis R. Line, Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Harold W. Cook, Mrs. Harris Hale, Mrs. Elmer Allen, Mrs. Loren Robinson, Mrs. C. Ernest Olson, Mrs. Frederic W. Dundas, Mrs. Arthur Sherbondy, Mrs. Gene Gilbert, Mrs. Watts Cate, Miss Katharyn Moon, Miss Florence Rickel, Miss Hazel Miller, Mrs. Fred R. Educated at the University of Barcelona and the Barcelona Conservatory of Music, these two vivacious sisters portray Spain musically from its aristocratic and cultural side, rather than from the usual Gypsy or provincial folk

Chaffey Pigeon Breeds Improve Bird Camouflage

Kenneth Nissley will exhibit his camouflaged pigeon which exceeds all those previously bred by members of the Chaffey high school pigeon club this evening at a meting of that organization in the Chaffey pigeon lofts. Ray L. Delahauer, adviser for the organization, indicates that the mottled colors on the breast as well as the back of this bird are more perfect than any effects yet achieved.

Other members of the Chaffey club who are achieving success in breeding these birds are Albert Griffith, Francis Rolands and Raymond Maggard. All club members who won racing homer lofts are making an effort to achieve such coloring in their birds.

This breeding has been done with stock birds in the Chaffey lofts.

Besides the pigeon show which will take place this evening, the members of the club will discuss the requirements for young men who wish to enter the pigeon sections of the United States army.

Miss Grace Warner, cousin of Mrs. S. G. Moore, went to Los Angeles Wednesday to visit with friends for a week or more.

life, alone.

For the more classical portion of the program, the artists appear in the usual concert clothes, but for their Spanish numbers they wear their native costumes.

The meeting will be opened at 2 o'clock by Mrs. Donald E. Hill, club president and a brief business session will be held. Mrs. J. Emery Sargent will present the entertainers.

Following the program the guests will be entertained at tea.

R. M. HENDERSON WILL TAKE LEAVE

Cucamonga Garage Man Rents Station to Take Yellowstone Summer Work

Cucamonga will lose one of its active citizens, when Robert M. Henderson and Mrs. Henderson leave around April 1 for Yellowstone Park where Mr. Henderson will take over the garage foremanship for the Yellowstone Park Transportation Co.

The Hendersons will return to Cucamonga in November after the close of the Yellowstone season. For Mr. Henderson the change will be a return to old familiar stomping grounds. Previous to his moving to California he was employed in Yellowstone for a number of years by the transportation company.

The opportunity to take the work for six months' season came as a result of one of the transportation company employees being called for national defense service during that period with the result that Mr. Henderson was sought to take over during this time.

ELEVEN YEARS HERE

Mr. Henderson celebrated his eleventh year in business in Cucamonga on Feb. 20 last as proprietor of the oldest garage in the Foothill town. During his residence in Cucamonga he has taken an active part in civic and commercial enterprises and was one of the nine original organizers of the Grape festival in behalf of which he has given excellent service.

Through his untiring efforts in cooperation with local and state officals it is expected that the Cucamonga Grape festival will shortly receive substantial outside aid.

Mr. Henderson this year is president of the Cucamonga Service club a position which will be filled by Vice-President John Swoap for the remainder of the term until July. Also appointed by Governor Olson to a membership of the agricultural board for the Twenty-eighth district Mr. Henderson will retain this postion during his leave. During the last, the Fifty-eighth session of the California Legislature Mr. Henderson was in Sacramento for some time working on the Grape festival expansion. While there he was accorded honorary recognition by the Assembly.

LEASED BUSINESS

For the period of his absence, Mr. Henderson has leased his Cucamonga garage and service station for eight months to S. C. Patterson of Chicago.

Mr. Henderson said that he has not had a vacation since 1932, and now he is going to take one. His vacation will be until April 15 when he takes over his duties in Yellowstone, and for a month in the fall following the close of the season in the park.

Well Tunnel Work Continues in Wash

in the ground, for that upper end was now the size of a postage stamp.

It was wet down there! But after all, I would not know how else to find the bottom of a well and its feeder tunnels which burrow into an underground water stream.

So we started off up one of the tunnels. These tunnels rise on a one per cent grade. I guess that is because water runs down hill easier, and the main idea of the tunnels have been pushed as far well shaft. Eventually, when the tunnels have been pushed as fas as necessary, equipment will be removed. Then water will be allowed to fill the shaft and is expected to rise in it to a depth of about 75 feet. At precent, during tunneling operations, water must be kept pumped out. About 360 gallons per minute are being removed.

A little way up the tunnel we met Joe Morgensen, tunnel man, trucking a bucket of gravel to the shaft for removal. We had to flatten out against the timbered wall to let him pass, and then continued on our way.

WETTER AND WETTER

If it had been sprinkling above ground, we had certainly jumped from the frying pan into the fire, or more likely, had dived from the frog puddle into the whale's stomach. Down in the tunnel, 40 miners' inches of water was flowing around out feet, while water maintaining that flow oozed, dripped and streamed down the walls and from the timbered roof over our heads. Sloshing along, we finally came to a fork, where inky blackness went one way, and the incandescent lights went on up another tunnel branch. We followed the lights. They were reassuring. All the time we had to walk stooped over, for the tunnels average only about five feet high and are about three feet wide.

Now we began to hear the deafening repercussion of a compressed air drill. Shortly we came up against the end of the tunnel. There we found Clifford Cunningham pounding the tunnel head into the firmly packed gravel strata of the subterranean water stream.

SNAIL'S PACE

This stream gravel is packed almost as hard as solid rock. Mr. Cunningham showed us how he drills the holes, which he then fills with explosives and detonates to loosen up the packed mass. In this manner, the tunnel is mucked ahead about four feet a day with the removal of 96 cubic feet of gravel. As the tunnel goes ahead it is timbered up.

The timbering, if left exposed to the air and wet with seepage, as it is during construction, would rot out after a period of years, Mr. Manley explained. However, with the tunnels filled with water, as they eventually will be, the timbering will be preserved indefinitely, he said.

It is very solid timbering, too. This I discovered forcibly later on. We retraced our steps to the fork and then took off up the tunnel of inky blackness. There was no sound but our own splashing and the interminable drip and splatter of seeping waters.

It was in this tunnel, which heads for 507 feet northeasterly toward Mountain avenue, that I momentarily forgot to stoop. In that moment, my pith helmet met up with an 8x8 timber. It was a jarring forgetfulness. I ducked and stayed ducked from there on.

Soon the tunnel narrowed down so there was barely shoulder clearance between walls. Finally we came to the end right up against the solid core of Ontario peak, which slopes out under the wash.

DARK IS DARK

At this point, Mr. Manley snapped off his flashlight. I have seen some dark nights, but this was once I really understood how dark is dark. I could not even see a picture in my imagination at that tunnel end.

Then Mr. Manley turned on the torch again. It was like a searchlight in a blackout. It reminded me of those ads that praise the dependability of a popular flashlight in dark, wet places.

Stopping, splashing and skidding, we returned to the shaft. It did not seem so far as the trip out. Then we took in the length of the tunnel which curves out to the northwest. The water flow in this tunnel was greater and deeper than in the others.

With our return from this tunnel, we had completed the round of Upland's underground. So we pulled our feet out of the 40 miners' inches of water and mounted the gravel bucket and cable again.

This time we inched our way toward the top. I think I know now how Jonah must have felt when the whale gave him up. Daylight! I have never seen such gorgeous daylight, even though it was a grey, late afternoon and threatening rain. Why, even rain would have looked good for a change.

Upland's underground is a wet place, and the recent rains have made it more so, for their increased seepage forced temporary suspension of work. But Upland is adding substantially to its future water supply in a very assuring manner.

Case History Shows Tragedy of Overcrowded Living Conditions

By MRS DOUGLAS BLACK

Cipriano Talavera, 38, of Upland, was buried in Bellevue cemetery last Friday. He died at the San Bernardino hospital on Mar. 12. Funeral services were conducted Friday at the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe by Father Sanchez.

To most persons reading this brief press notice is meant merely that a Mexican had died.

But when the circumstances and family history are known, the death of this man is something that concerns more than the five little orphans who survive. His death means something, indirectly, to every resident of Upland.

VICTIM OF DISEASE

Cipriano Talavera died of tuberculosis, after being hospitalized in the county hospital since last October. His wife died September 7, 1939, when her last child was born. She also passed away in the county hospital. The mother lost her voice a week before she died, and experienced great difficulty in breathing. Authorities say, therefore, that she was a victim of the dreaded pulmonary disease.

A few months before the mother's death, one of her twin daughters, Leonor, passed away at the San Bernardino county hospital, at the age of two years. The child had been ill in the hospital for two months.

Today, there are five little orphans left in the Talavera family.

One is seriously ill, Irene. Eight years old, the child has been a patient in the hospital at San Bernardino since last June. In the tubercular ward, she is classified as an advanced case.

There are three other orphans in this county. They are Rojilio, 12, a sturdy-looking, red-haired, brown-eyed lad, who looks you square in the face; Jose, a black-haired boy of 10, and Beatriz, 4, the twin of the little Leonor who died. These three children, wards of the county, are being cared for as boarders in a Mexican home in Cucamonga. The baby, Mary, who lived, although her mother died at her birth, is located with an aunt in central California.

The children in Cucamonga are under careful supervision of the county health department, and a close check is being kept on them, lest an indication of active tuberculosis be discovered.

LEMON PICKER

From the time that the mother died in the fall of 1939, until June, 1940, the four children, ranging in age from 3 to 11, and their father, managed the household without any help. The father, once a fine strapping fellow, was employed as a lemon picker in Upland from 1928 until April 14, 1940. An industrious mother, Mrs. Talavera always sent her children to school neat and clean, school people report.

How did this family manage?

Explains one of the teachers at the Sierra Vista school, the Upland Mexican school, "Little Beatriz, although only three, was permitted to attend the pre-primer class, because there was no one at home to look after her. Later, Beatriz developed an eye infection, and because there was no one else to look after her, Irene, then 7, was excused from school and permitted to stay at home with her baby sister.

Rojilio, now relieved of family responsibility, and free to enjoy a normal childhood, was questioned as to how the family functioned without a mother.

"Who did the washing, Rojilio?"

"My father and I did it," he replied.

"Who did the cooking, Rojilio?"

"I did some of the cooking. My sister Irene did it, too."

Dressed in sturdy blue denim trousers, a trim blue shirt, and high black shoes, Rojilio shows the result of good food and good care. Teachers say that both boys are "good boys".

Of the family of eight members, five now survive, and one of that number is seriously ill.

WHAT IT MEANS

How this particular family concerns Upland is explained by G. A. Hanson, chairman of the Upland Housing Authority.

The answer, says Mr. Hanson, is that society could help prevent such tragedies. For instance, says the chairman, "If the overcrowding which existed in the Talavera home (where the family lived in two and a half rooms) could have been prevented, the spread of the infection might have been curbed.

"In planning our Upland housing project," continued Mr. Hanson, "the overcrowding which exists at present in the Mexican sections will not be repeated. Under present conditions, it is not possible to isolate a patient in a Mexican home. Yet because of overcrowding at the county hospital, patients must often be cared for at home.

"We know," the housing authority head says, "that public health costs will be reduced if housing is improved."

GAS WASTE

Needlessly tramping on the accelerator is one way of wasting gasoline. This practice causes more fuel to be drawn into the cylinders than can be used. The surplus causes oil dilution in the crankcase.

LOOK OUT FOR TRAINS

Motorists can steer their cars out of trouble, but trains have to stick on the tracks. With this reminder for drivers, safety officials urge utmost caution when crossing tracks.

Dorothy Maynor on Auditorium Program

Dorothy Maynor, sensational Negro soprano, who possesses "one of the outstanding voices of the day", will be heard tomorrow evening in Bridges auditorium, Claremont, on the Claremont Colleges Artist course.

Miss Maynor's rise to fame is one of the rare success stories in recent musical history. Only summer before last, she went to the Berkshire Festival to hear the music of the Boston Symphony orchestra, conducted by Serge Koussevitsky—and ended by making music herself for the great conductor. Following an audition at a morning rehearsal, Koussevitsky invited her to sing the next day at the picnic which he gives each year for the members of his orchestra. Before an audience of 200, including musicians, critics and a group of music lovers, the young Negro singer gave a difficult classic program. The professional audience present marveled at her versatility and tremendous vocal range, and found her beautiful voice to be one of the finest in a generation. A brilliant New York debut a few months later, and engagements with the leading symphony orchestras of the east was enjoyed by this modest artist, as well as successful recitals.

WATER ASSURED UPLAND DISTRICT

Precipitation in Feeder Area Ranges Around 200 Per Cent of Normal Fall

Optimism over the outlook for the season's water supply is expressed by A. C. Reynolds of the San Antonio Water company.

Close of the heaviest rains in many seasons leaves Upland, which is at the crown of the Chino basin, in the best position in years. In this section, water levels have registered a slight rise. The amount of water put under ground will exceed water conserved in 1938.

SAVINGS SHOULD RESULT

The rise in water levels here should result in savings in operating expense with consequent low water costs, Mr. Reynolds indicated.

Cucamonga basin has benefitted enormously from the rains. Spreading works in Cucamonga wash have held the season's entire runoff.

This basin is in excellent condition. The water level has been rising steadily, giving assurance of an ample water reserve for several years. Responding to the heavy amount of rain, flowers and exceptional cover growth in the canyons will insure a good summer stream of water.

AMPLE RESERVE

Mr. Reynolds was emphatic in stating that Upland and vicinity had had its full share of rainfall. Indications will favor a more than usually ample summer supply. He pointed out particularly the heavy snows piled up in the Baldy regions, which are the reservoir of a natural flow for several months.

Precipitation at Kellys Kamp for rain and snow so far this season is around 150 per cent of a year ago, and at the same time is nearly 200 per cent of normal precipitation. Snowfall at Kellys Kamp has ranged between 10 and 15 feet, with drifts around 30 and 40 feet deep.

Presenting this evidence, Mr. Reynolds feels that this district is in a position to enjoy real water security for some time to come.

John Palmer spent the past week end in Los Angeles visiting with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Spencer and family.

When a fool opens his mouth you can see right through him.

Wednesday evening, Russell Dysart of Ontario provided a special feature by giving an informative talk on iris culture.

Adding much to the pleasure of the guests and providing profit for the church group, tea was served each afternoon and a dessert course was provided each evening.

Mrs. Blanche M. Loch was chairman of the tea committee Wednesday and Mrs. Edwin Wichstrom served as chairman Thursday. Mrs. Merrill H. Moremen was chairman of the dessert committee.

Presiding at the attractively appointed table in the afternoons were Mesdames A. P. Moremen, J. Emery Sargent, Rex E. Lawhead, Ray C. Norton, Elizabeth Moore, Herbert S. Bailey, T. M. Nichols and Thos. W. Harris. Various ones aided in serving the dessert.

Many others gave excellent assistance in many ways.

Within an hour after the show opened Wednesday, visitors began to plan exhibits for "next year". And as the show progressed, so did the number of demands that the flower show be made an annual event.
